The University
California State University, Chico is a fully accredited, state-supported member of a 23-campus CSU system. The university is a residential campus serving a diverse student body of approximately 17,000.

Founded in 1887, CSU, Chico offers undergraduate and graduate programs in the Colleges of Behavioral and Social Sciences; Communication and Education; Computer Science, Engineering and Construction Management; Humanities and Fine Arts; Natural Sciences; Business; and Agriculture.

As a comprehensive university serving Northern California and other regions nationally and internationally, our first priority is the education of our students. We are committed to assisting students in their search for knowledge and understanding and to prepare them with the attitudes, skills and habits of lifelong learning in order to assume responsibility in a democratic community and global society.

The Community
With a population of nearly 110,000, Chico is located in the Sacramento Valley near the foothills of the Sierra Nevada range. It is 180 miles northeast of San Francisco and 90 miles north of Sacramento and offers a reasonable cost of living compared to metropolitan areas.

Chico retains the charm of a small town while offering medical services, excellent public and private schools, and many cultural and recreational activities. The city’s Bidwell Park, one of the largest municipal parks, extends from the city center along a creek deep into the foothills and surrounding canyons. Assistant Professor in Exercise Physiology
Department of Kinesiology
College of Communication and Education

CSU, Chico is committed to recruiting outstanding candidates who reflect the diverse, intercultural, and intersectional identities of our student body. The University proudly holds the Hispanic Serving Institution (HSI) designation, and enrolls over 17,000 students, over half of whom identify as first generation college students.

The ideal candidate will share Chico State’s demonstrated commitment to equity, diversity and inclusion, have prior experience working with culturally and socio-economically diverse populations, and will contribute to student success through inclusive pedagogy, research and service to the university and surrounding North State communities.

The Position: Assistant Tenure-Track Professor
Salary: Salary commensurate with education and experience.
Initial Review Date: 11/19/21; complete applications received after that date may be considered.

How to Apply: Applicants must provide a current cover letter (including how you have addressed, or plan to address teaching to diverse student groups), a CV, and contact information of three professional references. All applicants must apply online at: https://jobs.csuchico.edu/postings/6822

Applications submitted via email or in-person to the department will not be considered.

Qualification Details:
Minimum Qualifications: The minimum education requirement for appointment to this position is a terminal degree in exercise physiology or a closely related area. Candidates nearing completion of the terminal degree may be considered; however, all requirements for conferment of the degree must be met no later than August 17, 2022. Candidates must have the ability to successfully teach a variety of undergraduate and graduate courses in exercise physiology. They must demonstrate a line of professional and scholarly inquiry as evidenced by submission of peer-reviewed publications and professional presentations commensurate with academic experience. Candidates must also provide evidence of their commitment to, or experience, promoting and fostering an inclusive learning environment that is supportive of diverse learners.

Preferred Qualifications: Preferred areas of expertise include, but are not limited to, cardiovascular physiology, genetics, metabolic disorders, adipose physiology, and neurology. Post-doctoral training and grant writing experience are also preferred, but not required.

Responsibilities: This tenure-track position carries responsibilities in the areas of teaching, scholarship, and service. These include teaching undergraduate and graduate courses in area(s) of expertise and needs of the department; developing an area of scholarship leading to presentations and publications; advising undergraduate and graduate students; serving on master’s thesis and project committees; and contributing to the goals of the department and university by serving on committees. Additional responsibilities include working collegially with faculty.

The Department: The Department of Kinesiology is member of the American Kinesiology Association (AKA) and recognized by the National Strength and Conditioning Association (NSCA). We are a learning community of 11 full-time faculty, numerous part-time faculty, and over 700 major students. Department faculty hold national and international leadership positions and are known for excellence in teaching and applied scholarship as well as professional service. We welcome and encourage applications from BIPOC faculty.
