The SIU School of Medicine invites applications for a faculty position at the rank of Assistant Professor or Associate Professor. Tenure will be within the Department of Physiology with a possible joint appointment in another department. The position includes a 100 percent time, tenure track, 12-month state-funded salary, spacious research facilities, and competitive start-up funds. Applicants must have a Ph.D. in physiology or related biomedical science field. A minimum of two years postdoctoral or equivalent experience and evidence of high-quality research are required. The candidate’s specific area of research should be competitive for extramural funding and preferably complement existing departmental strengths in reproduction, neuroscience, and endocrinology. The successful candidate will be expected to contribute to medical school, graduate, and undergraduate teaching responsibilities of the department. For appointment at Associate Professor rank, the candidate should currently have tenure-track or tenured faculty status at a university, a high-quality extramurally-funded research program, and a strong record of research productivity. This is a security-sensitive position. Before any employment offer is made, the university will conduct a pre-employment background investigation, which includes a criminal background check. Additional departmental and job information can be obtained via the following web address: https://physiology.siu.edu.

Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled. For full consideration, applications must be received by April 30, 2021. For complete details, including how to apply, visit https://jobs.siu.edu/job-details?jobid=11592.
